About

“Anokhi” is an annual student exhibition held by the Art and Design Faculty of Ramaiah University of Applied Sciences, Bangalore. Anokhi which translates to “unique” in Sanskrit is a name chosen for the exhibition as, any individual studying in a creative field goes through an inward process of exploration and opening up of the right brain, thereby blossoming the realm of the elusive. The type of student work vary with complexity and creativity as the first years are taught to open up to the creative world and explore, and the senior’s are asked to make their thoughts and creativity, adhere to the rules of this world and make it usable by others.
