The Power of Non-verbal Communication

Today when I sat down to write for this issue, suddenly a thought about non-verbal communication came into my mind. So, dear students! Here comes an article on one of the most important yet ignored parts of communication...nonverbals. Hope you all will like reading it!

A blink of the eye, a shrug of the shoulder, a clench of the fist, a frown, tap of the foot, a raise of the eyebrows, the speed or loudness of voice, the eye contact or lack of it – all these nonverbal activities send strong messages and they cease to stop even when we stop speaking. Infact even in our silence, we are still communicating non-verbally.

Many a times there is a wide contrast between what we say and what we communicate through body language and when a listener is encountered with these types of paradoxical situation of mixed signals and if he/she has to make a choice whether to believe the verbal or non-verbal message then in most cases nonverbal becomes the first choice. The first and foremost things one needs to learn before reading body language and non verbal signs are the ability to manage stress and recognize emotions. However, the following are three important tips for reading the non-verbal signals sent by others

- Pay attention to discrepancies: Non-verbal communication should emphasize what is being said. Is there a similarity between the person's talk and his/her body language?

- Look at non-verbal communication indications as a group: Don't be over engrossed in reading a single gesture or nonverbal cue. Consider all of the non-verbal signals being received in totality.

- Trust your instinctive feeling: Don't dismiss your gut feelings. If you get the sense that someone is not being honest or that something is not adding up, you may be picking up on a mismatch between verbal and non-verbal cues.

The concoction for creating strong relationships goes beyond mere words. Successful non-verbal communication depends on one's ability to manage anxiety, be acquainted with own emotions, and understand the signals one is sending and receiving. But unfortunately, many people send perplexing non-verbal signals without even knowing it. When this happens, both relationship and conviction are damaged.

If one wants to communicate better in all areas of life, it is important to become more sensitive to body language and other non-verbal cues, so that one can be more in tune with the thoughts and feelings of others. At the same time one needs to be extra cautious in sending signals so that one can be sure that the messages sent are what one really wants to communicate.

"What you do speaks so loud that I cannot hear what you say," - Ralph Waldo Emerson

Karnataka Rajyotsava in RT Campus

On 16th Nov, 2021, DIMDIMA - Karnataka Rajyotsava was celebrated in Ramaiah Technology Campus, Peenya. Mr. Prakash C, President, Peenya Industries Association was invited as the Chief Guest. To show a glimpse of events planned for the day to the dignitaries, a dance performance was given by University dance troupes-Antaheen & Black Illusion. A musical tribute to Late Kannada Actor, Puneet Rajkumar was performed by the University Music Club – Euphony. It was followed by various cultural programs and fun games which continued till evening. Students and staff of the University participated with enthusiasm. All in all the function was a great success and the entire credit goes to the student fraternity for having planned and executed in a meticulous manner.

Karnataka Rajyotsava in GG Campus

A colorful and memorable cultural fest was organized on 26th and 27th Nov, 2021 by Faculty of Management & Commerce. Various activities were spread across on both the days. This was a mixed celebration of Kannada Rajyotsava and ethnic day. The theme was fully aligned with the main idea of celebrating cultures and traditions of Karnataka.

The grand show commenced at 10 AM with the arrival of Chief Guest Dr Reema Chaudhury, Director-Student Affairs and faculty members followed by welcome speech and lighting of lamp. There was Singing, Dancing, Poetry Writing, Fashion Show, Rangoli, Skits, Tug of War, Lagori, Quiz, Chowka-bara and Kunte-Bille. The audience was impressed and enjoyed the event thoroughly. Students participated enthusiastically in all the events which culminated in announcement and distribution of mementoes to the winners.

Lunch was served with love in desi style. The menu dished out was typical Karnataka cuisine. After some performances there was a dance dedicated to Dr Punith Raj Kumar, famous Kannada actor who died recently, in order to salute him for all his work. The Chief Guest was mesmerized by the vibrant energy and appreciated the team led by Mr. Rajeev Prasad, Assistant Professor, FMC for all their efforts. Later on, the students immersed themselves in dance and music and enjoyed each and every beat of it. The moments were beautifully captured in the eyes of camera and the event reached its logical conclusion through vote of thanks. The fest was wrapped up with a smile on everyone's face and curtains fell at 5 PM

Karnataka Heritage Day

The enthusiastic students of Faculty of Life & Allied Health Sciences, RUAS celebrated FLAHS UTSAV - Karnataka Heritage Day on 27th October, 2021, a day filled with plethora of events to increase awareness and celebrate the rich cultural diversity of Karnataka. Soon after the inauguration, the students went to venues, allocated for its spectrum of events which included Quiz, Rangoli Art competition, Essay Competition, Kannada Poetry Competition, Poster Making & Collage Making Competition. After a day filled with fun, the event finally ended up with the felicitation ceremony. All the hard work from a team of dedicated student coordinators really showed for the grand success of the event.

Plog Run

The NSS team of Ramaiah University of Applied Sciences (RUAS) organised "Plog Run- A Run to Make Mathikere Litter-Free" on 28th October 2021 as a part of the Clean India Campaign. The NSS volunteers of RUAS from various disciplines like Dental Sciences, Pharmacy, Engineering, Art and Design, Management and Hospitality came together to participate in the event. The volunteers picked up plastic waste, the majority being used water bottles and gutka packets. The students along with Faculty NSS Coordinators and Student Affairs Team covered more than 6 kilometres and collected more than 30 kilogram of plastic waste. This is a great initiative by Government of India to involve students at a young age from educational institutions to make them understand the importance of cleanliness in and around.
